Riverview Law to expand its Wirral Centre and open a second US office following contract wins with global businesses

Following new contract wins and the expansion of its work with its existing FTSE100 and global customers Riverview Law, the fixed-priced legal services business, is expanding its Wirral Centre which already has nearly 100 team members. It has commenced a new recruitment drive to attract lawyers, and other professionals, from the Chester, Liverpool, Wirral and North-Wales areas.

Riverview Law has also announced that it is opening a second US office to support the significant growth it is experiencing. Opening on 1 August 2015, the New Jersey office will be close to its existing hub in Manhattan, as well as to the technology and entrepreneurial ecosystem surrounding Princeton University.

These developments follow a period of rapid growth which has seen the launch of Riverview Law In-House Solutions which enables customers to license Riverview Law technology, the creation of a separate technology business, and an Artificial Intelligence Partnership with the University of Liverpool.

Katy Robson, Operations Director, says: "Having built solid foundations over the last three years we are expanding rapidly with our sales growing at c100% pa. We can provide our team and new joiners with a long-term, secure career in a rapidly growing business that is helping to change the legal market. Anyone who is looking to work in a positive, innovative, professional and fun environment, whilst working on engaging and challenging work, should call us."

Andy Daws, Vice President, North America at Riverview Law, says: "Our US expansion, focused on business development for customers wanting access to the English courts, client management and technology, is a testament to our customer-centric business model. Working with our IT and legal colleagues in the UK, we're transitioning from a tech-enabled to a tech-led business. We're using existing and emerging technologies to develop easy to use solutions with unrivalled analytics capabilities, all designed to help our own teams and our customers make better and quicker decisions."
